

Delivering the Right Talent to Banks and Broker-Dealer Firms

Managing change in your business in an increasingly complex market is unsustainable without high-quality, skilled specialists and a modern approach.

We believe financial institutions have traditionally been underserved by technology and overwhelmed with commodity resources that don't effectively deliver the return on their investment.

Vox Consulting combines global banking and regulatory experience, well-trained consultants, and advanced technology to help global financial institutions plan, staff and deliver major change projects.

WHO WE SERVE

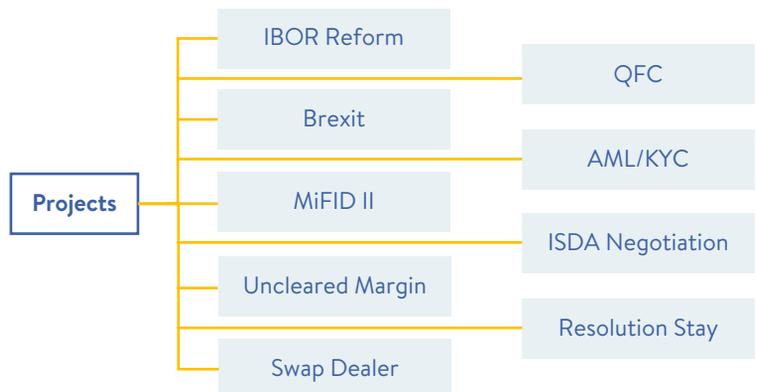

Our primary clients are banks that are continuing to invest in G20 regulatory change and related business and technology change. Vox consultants address short to medium-term resourcing needs in front office business change teams, IT and operations.
